Tree Ent

Tree Ents defend the forests of the world, - they are both strong, and free, They stand Fall, but silent without the wind and when not provoked, They have been known to dance wildly when the cold North wind blows.
They are diverse species that can create life from a single acorn.
Celebrate with us, grow with us, live with us; we can be as one!

This sculpture was designed to celebrate the forests of the world and to bring a modern whimsical feel to the issue. Using the Tree Ent from the Lord of the Rings trilogy and blending it with a short story about these whimsical creatures of the forest brings the conversation to reality; without the forests of the world we would not be here. But with them we are stronger than we could ever be. We need to replace what we remove.

The United Nations has declared March 21 as International Day of Forests.

- 1. The Forests of the world are considered home to 80% of the world's terrestrial biodiversity.*
- 2. They provide 75–100 billion US $ per year in goods and services such as clean water and healthy soils for all to enjoy.*
- 3. It is said that approximately 25% of the world's population rely on forests for their livelihoods, many of whom are the world's poorest.*
